Russia Tried To Cut Aid To Cong

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin urged North Vietnam's Communist rulers in vain to halt the flow of troops and arms to South Vietnam as one essential step to ensure peace talks, diplomatic informants said today.

These sources said the Soviet leader's advice made plain Hanoi's action — or even a promise of it — would be balanced by a guaranteed American military standoff.

The failure of President Ho Chi Minh's regime to respond positively and swiftly to Kosygin's prompting led to the resumption of American air raids on North Vietnam Monday, and thus to the failure of intensive Soviet-British peacekeeping efforts during Kosygin's visit to Britain last week, the sources said.

Yet Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his key advisers apparently still hope North Vietnam's rulers may halt, or promise to halt, the dispatch of military reinforcements to South Vietnam and that this will activate an agreed Soviet-British peacekeeping program.

Wilson told the House of Commons Tuesday: "There is an initiative... a plan that I can't tell you about which could bring peace tomorrow and which requires a very small move to activate all the very complicated machinery that could bring us to peace."

The British also seem to be convinced, on the basis of what Kosygin has told them, that two of the chief factors behind Hanoi's failure to respond probably were these:

1. There are now around 100,000 North Vietnamese troops across the frontier operating in support of the Viet Cong. President Ho plainly does not want to leave them high and dry. Yet Kosygin is understood to have stressed that any cutoff of military supplies need not deprive them of food or material supplies.

2. There are now also about 100,000 Red Chinese in North Vietnam whose main mission seems to be to stiffen Hanoi's resistance against anything that Peking would regard as a retreat.

Wilson and Foreign Secretary George Brown reportedly emerged from their week of contact with Kosygin profoundly impressed with what they took to be a deep, genuine Russian anxiety for a settlement.

Polls Disagree On Romney And Nixon Popularity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two nationally distributed polls diverged sharply Tuesday on the attitudes of Republican voters toward Michigan Gov. George Romney and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon as their party's possible presidential nominee.

The Gallup Poll said: "Richard Nixon emerges as the top choice of Republican voters of the nation as the 'best candidate' for the GOP."

The Harris Survey reported: "At a time when Gov. George Romney appears to have a good chance of winning an election against President Johnson, former Vice President Richard Nixon seems to be sinking in popularity."

The Gallup Poll said that among Republicans it found Nixon preferred by 52 per cent to 40 per cent for Romney with 8 per cent undecided. It said that among independent voters Nixon and Romney each received 43 per cent with 14 per cent undecided.

Nixon trails Romney The Harris Poll on the other hand said that "when Republicans and independents were given a list of potential GOP candidates and asked their first choice, Nixon trailed Romney by 41 to 28 per cent."

"In a direct showdown, with all other GOP potential nominees out of it, Romney defeats Nixon by 59 to 41 per cent," it said.

The Harris Poll also reported that Romney received 53 per cent in a poll versus President Johnson whereas Nixon received 43 per cent in a similar poll.

Both polls were taken early this month, officials said. Asked about the development in Lansing, Mich., Romney replied that he did not want to get in the middle with the polls being "poles apart."

Not Comparable The Gallup Poll, as first distributed, was withdrawn, and George Gallup Jr. said Sunday the reason was that different questions were asked in the latest poll from those asked in November and that the two polls therefore were not comparable.

He said the basic question in the November poll was "which of these Republicans would you most like to see get the Republican nomination for president?"

The February question: "Which of these Republicans would be the best candidate?" The November poll had Romney favored by 51 per cent of Republicans and Nixon by 43 per cent.

Gas Tax Use To End Bridge Toll Proposed

By The Associated Press
A State Highway Commission member today proposed earmarking one-quarter of a cent of the state gasoline tax for retirement of Mackinac Bridge bonds.

Commissioner Wallace (Mike) Nunn of East Tawas also said he would support increasing the gas tax by another one-fourth of a cent, using this money for construction of scenic highways. Nunn made his proposals at the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Road Builders Association at East Tawas.

Nunn added he would support the proposals only if the additional gas tax is over and above the one-cent increase now being sought by the Michigan Good Roads Federation.

He said he was speaking only for himself, and not for other members of the State Highway Commission.

Nunn estimated the passenger car toll on the Mackinac Bridge could be reduced from $3.75 to $2.40 if the commission is able to refinance the bridge with general obligation bonds.

"But as far as I'm concerned a $2.40 toll isn't low enough," he said. "Earmarking one-fourth of a cent of the gasoline tax could enable us to reduce the toll to 50 cents or even eliminate it completely if we wanted to."

A 50 cent toll, Nunn said, would just about cover maintenance and administration costs of the bridge. Nunn said he favored at least the minimum toll.

Reducing the toll on the bridge plus the construction of a network of scenic highways, would have a tremendous economic impact on Northern Michigan and especially the Upper Peninsula, Nunn said. Some of the most beautiful scenery in the country, he said, is in Northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula.

"But much of it is inaccessible to tourists because of lack of roads. The south shore of Lake Superior and the St. Mary's River are good examples," he said.

About the only way to embark on a scenic highway program, he concluded, would be through the one-quarter cent added gas tax.

Spring Whiff? Forget It! Mercury Dips

By The Associated Press
Michigan residents: If you smelled a whiff of spring in the air Tuesday afternoon or this morning, forget it. The weatherman has issued heavy snow warning for tonight.

School Buses Flee Storm

The Delta County Road Commission this morning advised all school districts in the area to get its buses on the way home early today because of the building snowstorm.

Driving in the Delta County area continued to grow more hazardous as drifting snow covered highways. The Weather Bureau forecast accumulations of between two and four inches with temperatures continuing to fall. A low of 10 below zero was predicted for tonight.

for the southern Lower Peninsula with snow and blowing snow expected in the north this afternoon and tonight. Hazardous driving warnings are in effect for the entire Lower Peninsula.

The thermometer, which began climbing toward the 40s Tuesday, is expected to plunge below freezing today. Lows tonight in the south are expected to range from 10 to 20 degrees. In the northern Lower Peninsula lows will range from zero to 10 above.

Much colder weather, increasing cloudiness and occasional snow flurries are predicted for the Upper Peninsula. As much as six inches of snow is expected to fall in the southern Lower Peninsula. One to three inches are forecast for the north.

Northeasterly winds will be increasing to between 15 and 35 miles an hour throughout the state. Temperatures in the Upper Peninsula are expected to fall as low as 15 below in the east and to 20 below in the west and central portions.

Nuclear Ban Treaty Signed By 14 Nations

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Fourteen Latin-American governments signed the treaty of Tlatelolco Tuesday night to ban nuclear weapons from the vast territory between the United States and the Antarctic.

But before the first treaty banning nuclear weapons from a populated area is binding, it must be ratified by all governments controlling territory in the zone and guaranteed by the five nuclear powers.

Seven Held Back Only Mexico said definitely it was waiving the requirements for putting the treaty into force. Seven countries within the zone did not sign at the ceremony in the Mexican Foreign Ministry building for various reasons, but the delegates to the treaty-writing commission have indicated they may sign later.

Ten of those who did sign are expected to waive the requirements for putting it into force when the treaty comes up for ratification in their congresses. They are Colombia, Costa Rica, Chile, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Mexico, Panama, and Uruguay.

4 Years Work Most diplomats who took part in the almost four years of negotiations insisted they feel the documents will be valuable.

Adelaide Hart Quits Democrat State Post

DETROIT (AP) — Miss Adelaide Hart, the tireless "den mother" of Michigan's Democratic party, announced her retirement as vice chairman Tuesday with as little fanfare as she served.

"I just decided not to run again," said Miss Hart, a retired Detroit school teacher who has served 16 years as vice chairman.

"I don't want to be drafted either," Miss Hart added, referring to State Democratic Chairman Zolton Ferency's decision to reconsider after saying he would not seek re-election.

Half Of States Ready Controls For Clean Air

CHICAGO (AP) — The menacing problem of air pollution is attracting the major attention of legislators in many states, a study showed today.

Many measures dealing with air pollution control already have been thrown into the legislative hoppers of almost half the states of the Union.

These measures touch on air pollution controls, waste disposal and incinerator controls, tax exemptions for control devices, noise abatement and motor vehicle emission devices and pollution control commissions.

Commerce Clearing House, a private reporting agency which made the study, said that tax exemptions, license credits and other incentives designed to eliminate air pollution have been proposed in New York, Washington, Connecticut, West Virginia and Utah.

Also being considered are proposals for the establishment of statewide air pollution controls in Mississippi, Arizona, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Utah, Missouri and North Dakota.

Romney Tax Reform Rated Short Of Need

SAGINAW (AP) — The president of the Michigan Association of School Boards called Tuesday for a march on Lansing to protest Gov. George Romney's budget and fiscal reform proposals.

Walker C. Averill Jr., a member of the Saginaw Board of Education and president of the MASHB, said Romney's proposals do not provide enough money for quality education in Michigan.

He said circulars and petitions are being prepared by 10 educational groups around the state, asking Parent-Teacher Association members, teachers, school officials, board members and other citizens to see their legislators and present their objections.

Set March 1 Date Circulars on the subject were presented to members of the Saginaw board at a special meeting Tuesday.

Averill said he will ask Saginaw area P-TA groups to join the protest march, scheduled March 1 in Lansing.

"We're appealing to every mother and father and every member of the various educational organizations to meet in Lansing with petitions to ask for a better fiscal reform program for the sake of Michigan's children," said Averill.

Groups Cooperate He said the groups organizing the protest are the Michigan Association of School Administrators, the Michigan Conference on Fiscal Reform for Quality Education, the Michigan Conference of Parents and Teachers, the Michigan Education Association, the Michigan Federation of Teachers, the Detroit Board of Education, the Detroit Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, the Detroit Federation of Teachers and the American Association of University Women, Michigan State Division.

Averill said he is the chairman of a steering committee on fiscal reform for the groups.

He said representatives of the groups met with Gov. Romney Feb. 3 and said later they were "unwilling to accept the governor's statement that his program is the maximum the Legislature will accept."

The governor's program calls for a personal income tax of two and one half per cent, a five per cent corporate income tax and an eight per cent levy on financial institutions. It includes also a three-cents-a-pack cigarette tax hike.

Less Per Child Romney's budget calls for $865 million for education, an increase of $70 million over present school expenditures.

Averill said this would only provide enough to preserve the status quo.

"We're going to have less money per child to operate on in terms of total state aid if the fiscal reform program goes through. We have certain built-in increases."

"The petitions to legislators will ask for support of an enlarged program over Romney's," Averill said.

He said the groups hope to have at least one car load of marchers from each school district in the state at Lansing March 1.

Speck Is Taken To Peoria Jail

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard Speck, 25, charged with murdering eight student nurses, was taken by car today from the Cook County jail to Peoria, said Warden Jack Johnson.

Sheriff's police accompanied Speck on the drive and he was lodged in a fourth-floor cell in the Peoria County Jail.

He is to be tried on all eight indictments simultaneously when his trial opens in Peoria Monday, according to a ruling issued Tuesday by Judge Herbert C. Paschen. The judge also announced a set of sweeping guidelines regulating news coverage of the trial.

Wonders Never Cease!

Cedar Cut Helped By Deepest Snows

By JEAN WORTH

It's paradoxical, but it seems likely that more cedar is being cut in mid-Upper Peninsula woodlands this winter than last year, although there is fear that the pulpwood supply from the winter's cut may be short of the needs of some mills supplied by the area.

In other years the cedar cut came last in the winter's progression of logging because cedar brought the lowest price.

But two things have happened to change the historic pattern of "cedar last and least."

1. The price of cedar has moved up until it is competitive with pulpwood.

2. The very deep snows of this winter have made cedar swamps more amenable to cutting than the more open and upland areas where much pulpwood grows.

Fewer Permits

Wesley Lehmann, supervisor of the five state forests in the Conservation Department's District 3 reports that in January this year the department issued 141 cutting permits for state timber, compared with 174 a year ago, indicating less logging in the district. It is composed of Menominee, Delta, Marquette and Schoolcraft counties and part of Alger.

But in January this year remittances from loggers in payment for state timber they cut totaled $18,349 compared with $17,294 in January, 1966. There has been some increase in state stumpage prices, but not much.

Man Witnesses Wolf Attack On Isle Moose Cow

ISLE ROYALE (AP)—As an example of one savage battle royal at Isle Royale, here is an account of a struggle between 16 wolves and one lone cow moose.

"The 16 wolves were traveling along the shore when suddenly they veered inland toward a lone cow. She stood next to a bushy spruce for protection, and as the wolves lunged, she charged and kicked them with all four feet."

"Meanwhile, the entire pack caught up...the wolves attacked. They were attached to her back and flanks and one held her by the nose..."

"The downed animal attempted to rise, but the sheer weight of the wolves seemed to anchor her...The wolf grasping her nose held on firmly while she violently shook her head..."

"The moose struggled for more than five minutes while the wolves, packed solidly around her, tugged away. The 'nose-wolf' continued its hold for at least 10 minutes. After 10 minutes, the moose appeared dead."

David Mech who spent part of three winters on the island studying the relationship between the wolves and the moose there, furnished the blow-by-blow fight account. Most of his observations were made from a low-flying plane, which the wolves learned to ignore.

Last In Michigan

Only a few wolves are believed still hiding out in the most remote areas of the Upper Peninsula.

Moose are unknown elsewhere in Michigan except in zoos—although a stray might wander occasionally over the ice from Canada.

Isle Royale, located nearer to Minnesota and Canada than Michigan, is accessible to visitors only during the short Upper Peninsula summer.

The unique combination of wolves and moose found there is one of the main reasons conservationists believe it should be preserved as a wilderness area.

The moose population on the 210-mile square island in Lake Superior is estimated at 600. The wolf pack is thought to number only about 20.

Recent Settlers

Both are fairly recent settlers on the island. The arrival of the moose, over the ice or swimming from Canada, is dated in the early 1900s.

It is believed the wolves did not reach the island from Canada until 1948.

Four zoo-bred wolves also were introduced to the island. But since they frightened tourists and others by friendly visiting in search of handouts, two were shot and one was deported.

Only one, "Big Jim", hand-reared in Detroit, is believed to have survived. Observers think "Big Jim" is a lone wolf they have seen following the larger wild pack.

It is estimated this small pack of wolves manages to kill between 160 and 225 moose a year. At first glance, permitting this would seem a wanton waste of the rare moose herd.

Moose Died Off

Before the wolves appeared, however, the moose herd was estimated as high as between 1,000 and 3,000 animals. Then there was a drastic die-off because the moose population was too large for the browse available.

It is argued the wolves prey mostly on the weaker and diseased animals. The pack has been observed to "test" a moose. The wolves generally give up on a moose that dares stand and fight.

Even a calf can escape, observers warn, unless it is separated from the mother.

"If the wolves were exterminated, a significant increase in moose numbers probably would be noticed within a few years," said Mech. "When the population overtook its food supply, another die-off would occur and the cycle would repeat itself."

90 Per cent Wilderness

"Malnutrition, disease and parasitism probably would be the mortality factors, and these tend to cause catastrophic losses instead of the low, steady mortality which characterizes predation."

Many conservationists urged at a Jan. 31 meeting at Houghton that even more than the now-proposed 90 per cent of the island be kept intact as a wilderness area.

The wolves circle the island in search of prey, following the shoreline and crossing the ice during winter. This also is the most "civilized" area of the remote island.

Michigan's last large wolf pack should have one place left to howl, is the wilderness argument.

Orbiter Snaps Good Pictures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Lunar Orbiter 3 snapped its first pictures of astronaut landing sites on the moon today and a few hours later spokesmen said they were of "excellent quality."

The word came from a tracking station at Madrid, Spain, and was relayed to National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here, who are controlling the flight of the 850-pound spacecraft.

The pictures were received at Madrid at 7 a.m.

Another batch of pictures was to be radioed to a tracking station at Goldstone, Calif., later in the day.

Air Commander Has Family Ties In Rapid River

Colonel Raymond J. Bryan, a native of Kalispell, Mont., arrived at KI Sawyer Air Force Base recently from Altus Air Force Base, Okla., to assume duties as vice wing commander of the 410th Bomb Wing.

The entire career of Col. Bryan has had the airplane as its focal point. He is a qualified pilot of eight aircraft in the Air Force inventory, including the KC-135 and B-52 that are used at Sawyer.

Col. Bryan replaces Colonel Fred P. Sherman who has been reassigned to Southeast Asia.

The new Vice Wing Commander has several relatives in Rapid River. "The Upper Peninsula has long been our vacationland and we consider Rapid River as our primary home area," Colonel Bryan noted.

Relatives of Col. Bryan residing in Rapid River include Maude Hocks, an aunt, who lives in the Hocks family home there; and an uncle, Robert Hocks, retired Soo Line engineer. His mother was Ella M. Bryan (Hocks) and his grandmother the late Sarah Hocks.

The colonel attended the Air War College in 1963, and has been assigned to MacDill Air Force Base, Fla., Bunker Hill Air Force Base, Ind., Lincoln Air Force Base, Neb., and Altus Air Force Base.

Among the decorations Col. Bryan wears are the American Campaign Medal, World War II Victory Medal, National Defense Service Medal, Outstanding Unit Award and Air Force Commendation Medal. Col. Bryan is married to the former Sparky Kirkpatrick of Charleston, Mo. They have five children; Robert, 19; Patricia, 17; Barbara, 14; Kelly, 12; and Sharon, 10.

Col. Raymond J. Bryan

When asked for his thoughts on being assigned to northern Michigan, Col. Bryan remarked: "We are ardent campers and have camped in the vicinity of Rapid River many times. Now that we are assigned here we can enjoy camping often during the summer and we are looking forward also to enjoying the winter wonderland."

Marble Is Honored

The Delta County Historical Society honored William L. Marble, senior member of a distinguished Delta County family and a director of the Historical Society, at a meeting of the Society directors Tuesday night in Escanaba.

The Gladstone industrialist was recognized for his long-time and continuing interest in the activities of the Historical Society. The presentation of an honorary membership was made on behalf of the Society by Clint Dunathan, a director of the organization.

Mr. Marble was to have received the certificate of recognition at the Society's annual meeting, but he had been unable to be present at that time.

Markers Research Robert Schmeling, Society president, and other officers and directors joined in congratulating Marble and expressing their appreciation for his many contributions to the organization.

Presently Marble is actively involved in the work of the Society's historical markers committee. The committee has researched the history of two locations which are to be marked by the Society this coming summer, with the cooperation of the Michigan Historical Commission. One is the Escanaba River site at Pioneer Trail Park and the other marker will designate the old trail to Munitising originating near Rapid River.

The Marble name has long been identified with the Gladstone community through the establishment there in the early 1890's of the Marble Arms Co. by the late Webster Marble,

The Historical Society directors in other business made plans to increase the Society's membership and to keep the Delta County Historical Museum open additional hours in the coming season.

Area Seniors Are Finalists

Two Escanaba Area High School seniors have reached finalist standing in the 1966-67 National Merit Scholarship competition, Principal Robert Micensky announced today.

They are Ann D. Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arol Beck, 908 7th Ave., S., and Robert W. Swenson, son of Mrs. Gladys Swenson, 1918 1st Ave. S.

The students were notified of their finalist position by letter from John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corp., Evanston, Ill., and were presented with a certificate of merit.

Ranking of finalist in the competition is achieved by about one half of one per cent school seniors in the United States. Of the 14,200 finalists selected, about 2,300 Merit Scholars are selected.

Public announcement of the Merit Scholars is scheduled for May 3.

Museum building; George Semmens, membership chairman, noted that memberships are above those at this time last year; and Harold Bergman of the historical markers committee gave a report.

Because of the increasing amount of written materials at the Museum, there is the need for two additional filing cabinets. A gift of used four-drawer steel cabinets would be appreciated and donors are asked to contact Schmeling or other officers of the Society.

Blocking Can Help

The Council of Operation Action meeting at Northern Michigan University in Marquette recently adopted several resolutions aimed at improving the Upper Peninsula economy.

One petitioned the Michigan Conservation Department and the U. S. Forest Service to:

1. Continue their policy and practice of consolidating ownerships through timberland exchanges beneficial to the Upper Peninsula economy.
2. Review and simplify, expand and expedite this policy and actively pursue the practice to the fullest extent.

These are policies already embraced by the Conservation Department and Forest Service and now in use by them. What Operation Action, a volunteer economic development agency composed of industrialists, educators, government persons and professional people was suggesting was an implementation to create a vast new dimension of usage.

Government agencies like the Conservation Department in the state and the Forest Service in the U. S. Department of Agriculture are very zealous about the public interest and it is probably a fair statement that they overprotect it a bit in order to be sure that there's no criticism that they're giving away the public domain.

Their problem of relating the government's land holdings to those of private owners is a difficult one. Land tends to acquire nostalgic, romantic and esthetic values beyond its more familiar intrinsic worth as agricultural soil or forest land and now all Upper Peninsula real estate is subject to a new focus of appraisal because of the increasing worth of recreational facilities.

These considerations enhance the merit of the suggestion from Operation Action that a new outlook on government landholding would be useful all around. If both the government and the private holders of Upper Peninsula land could achieve a new outlook on stewardship-ownership that would make much easier an exchange of properties it could have a great beneficial effect on development.

The area is uniquely in need of this capacity which Operation Action has identified as an aid to growth. The great industrial baronies of the Peninsula, particularly those of mineral industry, were created a long time ago, except for such additions as those at White Pine and the new blockings for development of low grade iron resources.

The original wood industry empires were liquidated with exhaustion of the original forest's sawtimbers, except for those held by mineral industries. Their original purpose was mineral ownership and mining companies kept their lands for successive forest crops.

The State of Michigan acquired its state forest lands in the depression era by tax reversion. People didn't pay taxes on cutover forest lands and they reverted to the State. The State kept such lands in dedicated forest areas and sold reverted lands outside of them. The U. S. Forest Service acquired its forest lands by purchase in a time of low value and the need for rehabilitation.

The result of this random acquisition of lands for state and federal forests was checkerboard ownership, which is poor by any judgment. It is hard to manage, develop and harvest. Public usage is reduced because of uncertainties about boundaries.

Into this situation came another complicating factor, the new value of forest lands for recreation. It adds emphasis to the desirability of a freer exchange of lands to create an ownership pattern that will encourage the fullest development of the area.

This won't be easy. The public and, even more, government representatives have come to look upon land ownership as enduring and inviolate, and industry has a similar regard for its properties. But this is more a state of mind than a verity and the general interest suffers because ownership is not arranged in a logical order, but by historical chance.

The problem is one of applying planning to basic resources and it's difficult but desirable.

Federal Aid Price

By BRUCE BUSSAT
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — To get federal assistance under the ballooning, controversial grants-in-aid programs, the 50 states must themselves to certain substantial expenditures that they appear to be keeping very poor track of.

A major example: Under the famed interstate highway system, the federal government in most instances puts up 90 per cent of the construction cost, the participating state the remaining 10 per cent.

Yet for the entire life of the roads involved, and these could come to hundreds or even thousands of miles in particular states, the state is committed to the paying maintenance, repair and related service costs—such as the cost of police patrolling, drawing on figures supplied by highway officials, the Bureau of Public Roads has given congressional committees an estimate that when the entire 41,000-mile interstate network is completed, it will cost the 50 states at least $400 million a year to maintain and service these roadways. The figure is probably quite conservative.

Federal-state specialists suggest that very sizable maintenance sums are also involved in other "brick and mortar" federal grant programs, including construction of hospitals, college dormitories, airports, water, sewer and other community facilities.

A canvass of this field indicates, however, that nearly all the states are painfully fuzzy on the amount and nature of these supplementary expenditures induced by participation in juicy federal programs.

At the behest of the National Association of State Budget Officers, the states submitted their complaints against the working of grant programs at the state-level level. The association's compact 22-page report listed 69 specific "impediments" but never mentioned the problem of inescapable maintenance and service costs.

Nor is the matter being discussed before Maine Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's Senate subcommittee which is presently looking into federal-state fiscal relations.

New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller told the committee that his state spent a disproportionate amount of money and time merely to try to qualify for some federal planning funds—and to date has received less than a sixth of the requested sum. He echoed other officials who complain that the grant-in-aid system distorts state-local finances, and who urge some form of federal-state cost-sharing.

Nevertheless, the states' arguments—current and past—have been thought to be weakened by the evidence that they have not generally kept their own financial houses in good order. Their fuzziness on the issue of supplementary maintenance and service costs of federal aid programs is no help to their case. Experts in federal-state relations and in some of the affected federal agencies say bookkeeping practices among the states are far too vague to give them (with occasional exceptions) an accurate reading on what they lay out over the years to keep in running order what Washington has "given" them.

If they set out boldly what now amount almost to hidden extra charges for these programs, some states might not be so eager to join in. Without that clear indication, a 90-10 matching ratio such as prevails in the interstate highway program is, in the words of one authority, "so strong an inducement it's coercive."

Don't Bleat, DO Something

If you are to claim a larger interpretation for Lent, with a new spiritual dimension, then DO something. Strong resolutions and loud proclamations are pointless without action.

For some this will mean self-denial. Certainly, restraint in the pursuit of worldly pleasures, a distinct limitation of the fun and games that have become routine in our western culture. It may become a period of daily meditation. Or an increase in church attendance or participating in a parish study group.

So far, so good. As important as these personal activities may be, we are encouraged by Christ to go beyond ourselves and help the deprived and forgotten people of our world.

For example, the Christian church can shape the direction and activity of race relations in almost any American community, including yours. At just this time in our jaded-up national life, a new spiritual standard must invade the whole realm of black-white relations.

Sure, we have had a March on Washington and the passage of the civil rights acts. We have followed the gleam from Selma to Watts. The result has been neither happy nor convincing.

Now is the hour for Christians to take the burden of creative thinking and positive leadership — in their homes, churches and neighborhoods

The Meaning of Lent

—so that black and white can enjoy the good life together.

What did you do during Lent, Daddy? Maybe you opened up a job, an apartment, a mortgage loan for a Negro family. Lent is really people, the ones Jesus loved so much that He died for all.

—By David Poling

Your Income Tax — III

Filing Methods Vary

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This deals with the 1966 income tax returns of three groups.

1. Husbands and wives.

Single persons who get a lower tax rate if they can qualify as "head of household."

3. Certain widows and widowers who are permitted to use the lowest tax rate if they can qualify as "surviving spouse."

Almost always a husband and wife were filing a joint return — which means both must sign it — whether or not the wife had income. With a joint return they, too, like the "surviving spouse," get the lowest tax rate. If a husband files separately, because his wife failed to sign jointly with him, he can claim the usual $600 exemption for himself and another $600 exemption for her — provided she has no income and is not filing separately.

If you were under 65 in 1966 and file a return you get a $600 exemption for yourself — $1,200 if you were 65 or older in 1966 — and an additional $600 if you were blind.

Rates For Wives

The same rules apply to a wife if she files jointly with you, whether or not she had income; or, if she had none, fails to file jointly. A wife is not considered a dependent for income tax purposes. So the rules on wives and dependents are not the same.

If you were married or divorced as late as Dec. 31, 1966, you are considered, for income tax purposes, to have been married or divorced for all of 1966. Even though you paid more than half her support, you get no exemption for a wife divorced in 1966.

If your wife had any income in 1966, no matter how small, you can not claim an exemption for her on your return unless she files jointly with you, reporting her income.

She would have to file a return, of course, either jointly with you or separately if her income was $600 or more. If she filed separately, she would claim her own $600 exemption on her return. You, in that case, could claim only your own $600 exemption on your return and none for her.

Must Use Same Method

Married couples filing separate returns should remember: If one itemizes deductions, both must; if one uses the 10 per cent standard deduction, both must; if one uses the minimum standard deduction, both must.

The tax rate on single persons and married couples filing separately is the highest. But a single person who can qualify as "head of household" gets a lower tax by being allowed to use table B or schedule No. 3.

To qualify as head of household you must be unmarried and furnish over half of the cost of maintaining a household for the entire year for at least one relative.

Whether that relative must also qualify as your dependent or must actually live in your household depends on the relationship.

Your father or mother must qualify as your dependent and live in a home you maintain for him or her, although not necessarily in your home.

If you are paying for them in a home for the aged you can not claim you maintained a home for either of them.

Residence Is Test

Your unmarried child, grandchild or stepchild would not have to be your dependent but your household must have been the principal residence for you and that child or children in order for you to claim the tax status of head of household.

And, for you to make the claim for any other relative living in your home, that relative must qualify as your dependent.

Further, to qualify as head of household, you must have been unmarried or legally separated on the last day of 1966 although you could still qualify if, by year's end, you had married someone who was a nonresident alien some time during 1966.

If you file a return as head of household you must use form 1040.

Widows and widowers qualifying as "surviving spouse":

If you can qualify, you are allowed to use tax table B or schedule No. 2, which is what married couples filing jointly use, and thus get the lowest tax rate.

Qualifications Listed

To qualify you must have been entitled to file a joint return with your husband or wife in the year of death; you have not remarried; you have a child or stepchild who qualifies as your dependent; and you furnish over half the cost of running your home which is the principal residence of your child or stepchild.

If you meet those conditions, and your spouse died in 1964 or 1965, you can use the joint return rates reporting whatever income you had, take a $600 exemption for yourself, along with $600 for each of your dependents, but not for your deceased spouse, and use table B or schedule No. 2 in making your return.

This arrangement works two years forward.

For instance, suppose your wife died in 1964. Assume you filed a joint return that year, taking the proper exemptions, including your wife's, and getting the tax benefit that goes with a joint return.

In 1966 you could have filed a return — not joint and not claiming a $600 exemption for the husband or wife who died the year before — and still been able to use table B or schedule No. 2.

You could do the same in 1966 if your wife or husband died in 1965 or 1964. And, if he or she died in 1965, you'd be able to do the same again on your 1967 return, provided you still met the qualifications for surviving spouse.

Must Use Form 1040

Which means: If your wife or husband died in 1966 — the procedure in that case was given above — you'd still be able to use table B or schedule No. 2 in 1967, without making the return joint or claiming an exemption for the dead person, provided you still met the qualification for surviving spouse.

Anyone filing a return as a surviving spouse must use form 1040.

Next: exemptions.

Oswald: "The advantage of the drop play against the finesse when you miss four to the queen is so slight that on many occasions you will prefer the finesse."

Jim: "Yesterday's article was an example. West had opened with three clubs. This marked him with a long suit and greatly increased the chance that he would be short in spades. Today we have another situation in which the finesse insures the contract whether it works or not."

Oswald: "South ruffs the third heart and leads a trump to dummy's king. After both opponents follow, he leads a second trump and when East follows low South takes the finesse. If West produces the queen, South can show his hand because West will have no lead that won't give South the rest of the tricks."

Jim: "A club lead takes care of the queen of clubs, a diamond lead gives South an eventual club discard and a heart lead gives South a chance to ruff in dummy and get rid of a club."

Oswald: "And of course West won't have a trump left in his hand."

Jim: "We pointed out yesterday that the drop play will be worth only 18 extra tricks per 1,000 times used so that many players have a habit of preferring the finesse if conditions are right."

Oswald: "Unless those conditions are based on positive information about the opponents' hands these theories are worthless. There is the 'queen over the jack' fallacy which assumes the queen is more likely to be over the jack than in front of it. There is nothing to this. Then there is the 'Law of Symmetry,' which implies that if you have singletons the opponents will also. If you have a singleton, you must have a suit to compensate and someone else must have a short suit. However, if your opponents hold exactly four spades they will break 2-3 the same percentage of times irrespective of how many singletons you hold."

Phoning Can Avoid Ordeal In Shopping

Dear Ann Landers: What is which you call "scrapping" is wrong with me? Am I a kook also referred to as "abrasive" or are there other women planning" and it is a relatively around who feel as I do? Is it simple operation.

The physicians with whom I consult tell me that acne sufferers have been delighted with the results. They point out that the psychological effects of the operation are often vastly more important than the improvement in appearance. So go ahead and make an appointment with a dermatologist.

Dear Ann Landers: I keep pinching myself to see if I am awake or having a bad dream. Please tell me what to do at once.

Last night my husband told me he received a phone call at work from a girl he used to work with before we married. (She lives about 200 miles from here.) She said she had been married three years and her husband died a few weeks ago. Then she said, "I think it is time you become acquainted with your son. He is six years old now." My husband was shocked and I am a wreck. He says he is almost sure she is lying. What shall we do?—X. Y. 300

Dear X.Y. 300: The fact that your husband told you would indicate his conscience is clear. Moreover it seems unlikely that a woman would wait six years to make this "introduction." Call a lawyer and accept his counsel.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $5 in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: When I was in high school I had a terrible case of acne. A person who has not experienced this awful skin problem can't imagine how damaging it is to the morale of a teen-ager.

I'm in my early 30's now and the acne is gone but my face is scarred. I'm awfully self-conscious about this and I find myself avoiding people.

Can you tell me something about the procedure called "scrapping"? This involves freezing the skin and scraping off the top layer. The patient is awake but he doesn't feel any pain. I'm afraid to have it done without checking with someone and you are my best source. Please advise me. —HOPEFUL GIRL

Income Tax Isn't Good Bet To Cut House Tax

By JEAN WORTH

Is there a real prospect that property taxes on homes in Michigan will be lowered? Should this be a condition of the new income tax proposed for Michigan?

Are homes taxed as high as they should be already, or could Michigan stand another little kick in that quarter?

If Michigan isn't going to enact a state income tax, where can the cuts be made in state spending?

The presence of the State Tax Commission in Escanaba this week for the 14th annual Upper Peninsula Conference for Tax Assessing Officers provided an opportunity to ask some of these questions which have been bugging the public in this year of the Big Question: Will Michigan Enact an Income Tax?

The State Tax Commission is more involved at present, of course, in real estate values than in income because it administers the tax program that is in force, and not a new tax that has been proposed.

But taxes are always related and if the property tax in Michigan is to be reduced 10 per cent with the enactment of an income tax, as has been proposed, it will mean, says Chairman Robert Purnell of the State Tax Commission, that the income tax will have to be increased one per cent for every 10 per cent knocked off the property tax.

(The State is concerned with total income and every tax exemption must be balanced by a tax added somewhere else to avoid a deficit.)

Someone Must Pay

A flat rate income tax of 2.5 per cent has been proposed for Michigan by Governor Romney. If property taxes were reduced 10 per cent because of the new income tax, only 1.5 per cent of the 2.5 per cent tax would be new income, the other 1 per cent would only balance the property tax loss. This is on the basis of a personal income tax, not a corporate income tax.

Purnell said that a state income tax would get rid of "the onerous Business Activities Tax. It is based on how much business is done and not on how much is made."

1966 Yield

The Business Activities Tax adopted in 1953 taxes gross receipts of businesses, including the professions, and excluding banks, insurance and financial institutions. Rate for utilities is 2 mills and for others 7 1/2 mills. Estimated 1966 fiscal year yield was $119 million.

Michigan's ad valorem taxes increased 8 per cent in 1966 over 1965! This increase was chiefly due to heavier school taxes.

"We have to educate our children," said Purnell "and 55 per cent of Michigan's total tax income is now going for schools. Michigan collects $2.5 billion in state and local taxes."

All Ask More

"If the state is not going to increase taxes it is going to have to cut state services. What department of state government can accept a decrease in funds? The schools don't want to. The state agencies are all screaming for more money, not less. We feel the need to double our staff in the State Tax Commission in three years."

Purnell said there appears to be a serious effort afoot in Michigan to keep state real estate taxes from going any higher. He agreed that it was probably unlikely that property taxes can be reduced. To do so would make it even harder to sell an income tax to the Legislature and the public and it apparently will be difficult anyway. "We imbalance our tax structure by exemptions," said Purnell: "they burden the rest of the taxpayers."

Capital Outlay Cut?

He said that the state faces the need for raising more revenue or going into the red. "We can't do that, so we must do something," he said. "But how can we cut the cost of government?"

The historic way is to neglect capital expenditures, to skip the building of needed buildings and highways and other facilities. Such action is only a delaying device, because eventually the structures must be built at even greater cost, but it is not as politically sensitive as throwing people out of government jobs.

Schooling, for instance, which now takes 55 per cent of all the state and local tax income, devotes 80 to 84 per cent of its income to wages and salaries.

Quality Improves

Purnell said that the Commission sees no indication that property taxes have had an effect on the quality of housing being built in Michigan. "As long as people can buy as cheap as they can rent they

Guerrillas Sink Minesweeper, Damage 2 More

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) —

South Korean marines reported killing 243 North Vietnamese regulars today in a three-hour battle through rice paddies about 340 miles north-east of Saigon. It was the biggest battle in recent months in Vietnam.

In the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, Vietnamese authorities reported a combined army-ranger unit killed 56 Viet Cong in a pitched battle Tuesday. But in the Long Tau River — the main shipping channel into Saigon — 14 American sailors were wounded and one was missing when guerrillas sank one 80-foot U.S. minesweeper, badly damaged two others and fired on a fourth.

While the tempo of the ground war quickened, U.S. planes attacked transport routes in North Vietnam's panhandle area. Bad weather again was reported over most of the Communist north, and U.S. pilots relied on radar to guide them to their targets.

A Korean spokesman said two companies of Korean marines — about 400 men — took moderate casualties in the big battle this morning against an estimated 1,200 North Vietnamese attackers. The Koreans were pursuing the North Vietnamese tonight, he reported.

One company of Koreans was moving into a mountainous Communist stronghold 11 miles north of Quang Ngai City when the North Vietnamese attacked them with mortars.

The Communists penetrated the Koreans' perimeter at one point, the spokesman said, but the marines counterattacked and drove the enemy out in hand-to-hand fighting. Fighting was at such close quarters the marines couldn't call in air or artillery support until the North Vietnamese broke and fled.

Additional Korean marines were moved into the area, and the enemy death toll mounted as the marines swept through the valley north of the Tra Khue River.

The enemy unit was identified by the Korean spokesman as the 1st Battalion of the 21st North Vietnamese regiment.

Leonard Ward Named General

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney today announced the appointment of Col. Leonard C. Ward of Escanaba as assistant division commander of the 46th Infantry division, Michigan National Guard and his promotion to brigadier general.

The position has been vacant since the retirement of Brig. Gen. Howard Arbury last August. Ward has been on active duty as a National Guard representative on the Army general staff at Washington, D. C., since 1962.

General Ward is a son of the late Rev. and Mrs. James G. Ward of Escanaba, and a brother of James G. Ward, former associate publisher of the Escanaba Press, and of Mrs. Kenneth Thompson and Mrs. Clovis Colvin of Escanaba.

He was employed for several years by the municipal utilities of the City of Escanaba and is an engineer graduate of Michigan Tech. He was commissioned in the National Guard after graduation from Tech and was given extensive schooling in the service in this country and abroad.

He served for three and a half years overseas in World War II and won stars in Normandy, Northern France, the Ardennes, Rhineland and Central Europe and was awarded a Bronze Star for facilitating

Young Man Is Fined; Goes To Jail 30 nights

Robert W. Morin, 28, of 1014 2nd Ave. S., was ordered today by Municipal Court to pay a fine of $25 and costs of $5 and to serve 30 nights in the Delta County jail for being drunk and disorderly and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

His night-time jail term permits him to work at his job and thus continue to contribute to the support of his family, authorities noted.

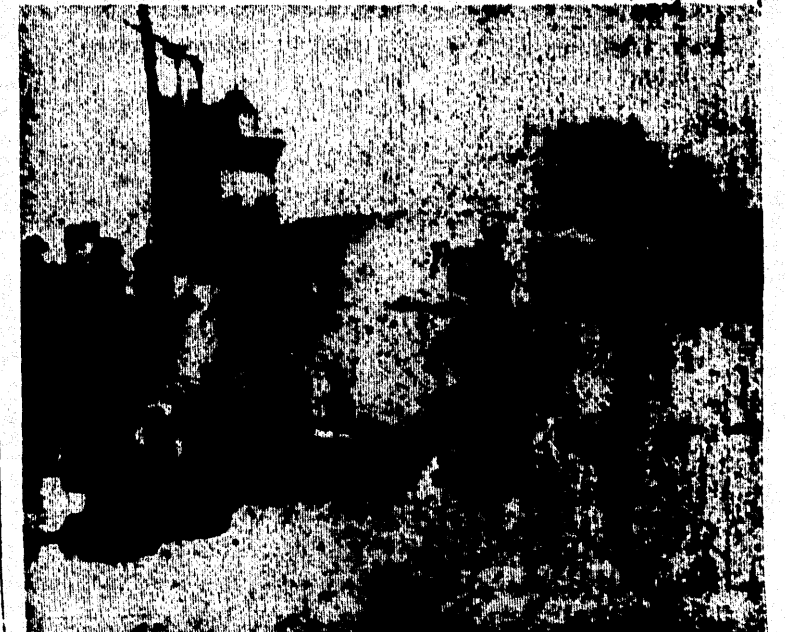

Escanaba police arrested Morin at 12:48 a. m. Tuesday after investigating a complaint that he had been involved in a street fight a short time earlier.

Thomas G. Black, 19, of 626 N. 4th St., Marquette, was injured in the fight. Police reported that Black had been furnished beer by Morin at the Sportsman's Bar, after he had been refused service because he was under 21.

Seek To Solve Labor Dispute

The Michigan Labor Mediation Board, represented by James McCormick, Lansing, met with City of Escanaba council members and representatives Tuesday at the City Hall in a discussion regarding city police membership in the Teamsters Union.

McCormick conducted the hearing in Escanaba in 1966 when the Municipal Employees Union and the City of Escanaba contested the certification of policemen as Teamsters Union members.

The Mediation Board ordered an election, the police voted unanimously to be represented by the Teamsters for collective bargaining with the City, and the City has refused to recognize the Teamsters as the bargaining agent for the police.

It is the position of the City that the police as Teamsters members create a conflict of interest, and that two police sergeants are command officers who should not be in union ranks.

The City agrees that the police should be represented in collective bargaining, but only by a fraternal association of police—not by a private union.

The Teamsters Union has charged the City with unfair labor practices and the next step in processing the dispute will probably be an action by the Labor Mediation Board citing the City, and ordering a hearing on the charge.

The discussion on Tuesday was for the purpose (so far as the City views it) of exploring the legal procedures the City hopes will bring the dispute into the courts for disposition.

Back Seat For Big Ten Cage Teams This Season

By The Associated Press

For the first time in 41 years the Big Ten college basketball race may end in a four-way tie.

The Big Ten has taken a back seat this season to such teams as UCLA, Louisville, North Carolina, Princeton, Western Kentucky, Kansas and Vanderbilt.

Thus the eye-scratching contest between Indiana, Northwestern, Iowa and Michigan State to succeed Michigan as Big Ten champion has gone virtually unnoticed nationally.

Iowa whipped Northwestern 80-75 at Iowa City Tuesday night and created the jam at the top in the Big Ten. Iowa, Northwestern, Indiana and Michigan State each are 5-2 at the halfway mark in conference play which ends March 11.

It's possible that the teams still will be tied then for the first finish in the Big Ten since 1926. That year Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Purdue deadlocked at 8-4.

North Carolina, fourth-ranked nationally in The Associated Press poll and the only team in the AP Top Ten to see action, rebounded from its upset at the hands of Georgia Tech to whip North Carolina State 77-60 at Raleigh.

Clemson beat Duke 73-68 for the Tigers' first victory over the Blue Devils in five years. In another surprise, Texas Tech downed Southern Methodist 82-74.

Kansas State defeated Missouri 82-67, Providence humbled St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 87-74 and Boston College tumbled Rhode Island 81-71 in other games.

Bob Lewis threw in 36 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lead North Carolina as the Tar Heels won their ninth straight in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The N.C. State Wolfpack took an early lead, but a 13-1 spree by the Tar Heels broke the game open. Jerry Moore led the Wolfpack with 21 points.

Both Providence and BC fell out of the AP Top Ten by losing last week.

Jim Valvano's 27 points led Rutgers to an 83-49 victory over Navy at Annapolis. In other road victories, Texas beat Rice

81-76, Texas Christian defeated Baylor 90-91 and Memphis State defeated New Orleans Loyola 52-46.

Pettit Choice For Stan's Job

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Former St. Louis Hawks' basketball star Bob Pettit has been suggested as a possible successor to Stan Musial as head of the President's Physical Fitness Council.

Musial made the suggestion. Musial resigned from the council when he was named general manager of the baseball Cardinals earlier this year.

Wisconsin overcame Minnesota 85-75, West Virginia routed Penn State 83-67 and Texas A&M beat Arkansas 60-53 in home court victories.

William and Mary took over second place in the Southern Conference by downing Davidson 74-71 at Charlotte behind 25 points by Ron Panneton, including four free throws in the last minute of play.

Clarke Will Let Other Runners Set Early Pace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nearly arrested while running across the Golden Gate Bridge, distance star Ron Clarke of Australia figures he'll let somebody else set the pace this time.

During a publicity picture session, Clarke was jogging on the wrong side of the bridge when stopped by a California Highway patrolman Tuesday.

"I thought I'd be deported straightaway," said Clarke later. "I didn't know I shouldn't be on the right side and I had crossed the highway illegally."

"Finally, it was decided I had made an honest mistake and the officer said he would let it go." Clarke runs Friday night in the feature two-mile race of the Golden Gate Invitational meet at the Cow Palace where a year ago he set the world indoor record at 8 minutes, 28.8 seconds.

Lindgren, Tracy Smith of Oregon State and former Oregon star Jim Greife provide the opposition and Clarke explained that he does not expect to set the pace this time.

Beaten in two big races by others who came on with finishing kicks, the Aussie has been working on speed and he plans a tactical race.

"I was beaten in the Olympic Games and the Empire Games when I boomed out and I feel I could have won with more patience," Clarke told a news conference.

Clarke also feels the altitude of the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City will hinder the distance runners from countries more near sea level.

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—While rumors swirled like a winter snowstorm about his future plans, Norm Van Brocklin, resigned Minnesota Vikings' football coach, relaxed and visited with old friends today in Portland, Ore., far from the storm center.

The Dutchman, the center of a storm which has engulfed the Vikings of the National Football League the past several days, would only say that he is not closing the door to a possible return to professional football's coaching ranks. For the time being, however, he said in Portland Tuesday he is not giving it much thought.

There were reports and denials Tuesday of where Van Brocklin was headed.

One published report in Chicago had him going to Green Bay as Coach Vince Lombardi's No. 1 assistant, with a possible move up to the Packer head coaching job if and when Lombardi decides to devote full time to being Green Bay general manager.

That report also had Packer assistant Phil Bengtson becoming Minnesota's head coach.

Lombardi promptly denied it all, saying:

"There's absolutely no truth to that story. In fact, it's terrible. The whole thing is ridiculous."

Bengtson said he would listen to any offer the Vikings might have, but added, "It would have to be extremely attractive to make me leave Green Bay."

Con Yagodzinski, former Holy Name High School star, became the third highest scorer in Northern Michigan University basketball history this week when he fired in 30 points in a losing effort against Lakeland. . . Yago's three year career total is now 1,002, exceeded only by Small College All-Americans Gene Summers (1,328) and Bob Armstrong (1,257). . . The 20 points against Lakeland also boosted Yagodzinski into the No. 1 scoring spot on the Wildcat squad this season. . . The 6 foot 5 inch senior co-captain has 292 points and a 16.3 average in 18 starts. . . He's also the second leading rebounder on the team with 157.

Coach Stan Albeck's Wildcats suffered the fate of many traveling teams in college ranks when they bowed to Lakeland, 96-85, at the Sheboygan, Wis. college. . . Northern outscored the Huskies by 10 field goals, 43 to 33, and outrebounded them, 56 to 35. . . But the Wildcats were whittled for 20 personal fouls and Lakeland converted 32 of 46 free throw opportunities. . . Northern made 9 of 14 from the line, coming off 13 Lakeland fouls.

Albeck, who will speak here next Monday at the noon meeting of the Kiwanis Club, faces a rugged assignment this week. . . He takes his Wildcats against the first and second ranked small college teams in the nation. . . Northern (10-8) will face Kentucky Wesleyan, the No. 2 team, Thursday night at Owensboro, Ky., and then invade Carbondale, Ill., Saturday to tackle Southern Illinois, the top team in the national poll.

Inhemping, a solid choice to repeat as Upper Peninsula Class B basketball king this season, closed out its Great Lakes Conference schedule with a perfect 9-0 record by belting Newberry, 82-71. . . Bill Zhulka, a 5 foot 11 inch sharpshooter, paced the Great Lakes champs with 23 points. . . Mike Perry and Dennis Robinson hit 19 each for Coach Jim Depew's Newberry team that carries an 11-4 season record.

Bowling bits: Ruth Needham picked up the 7-8-10 split in the Elks Ladies League, Geneva Iverson spilled the 4-7-10 and Dede Bonifas the 7-8 in the Housewives loop. . . Rolling in the Thursday Bowlerama League, Lorraine Briere spilled consecutive games of 121, 122 and 123.

Ewen's highly ranked Bulldogs added another victim to their season list by drubbing National Mine, 97-54. . . The Porcupine Mountain Conference leaders had four players in high double figures, led by Bob Franti with 36 points. . . Terry Conrad, 6 foot 9 inch center, dominated the boards and tipped in 20 points. . . Ewen is now 13-1 for the season.

The unbeaten Wakefield Cardinals had their hands full before tripping Houghton, 83-73, in an intersectional clash. . . Al Inkale, 6 foot 5 inch center, led Wakefield to its 14th straight victory of the season with a 33 point scoring performance. . . The setback was only the third against 11 victories for Coach Fritz Wilson's Gremlins.

Another Upper Peninsula high school will disappear from the sports scene next year with the closing of Negaunee St. Paul because of a shortage of teaching nuns. . . The school has an enrollment of about 135 students. . . Negaunee High School has an enrollment of 519 students. . . St. Paul has operated as a high school since 1924.

Although he was held to 16 points in the game last week-end against Holy Name, Menominee's Pat Miller wiped out the all-time Maroon career scoring record in the contest. . . The 6 foot 3 inch junior boosted his three year scoring total to 831 points, topping the former school standard of 816 set by Jim Uecke who graduated last season.

Frank Kleibush of Marinette smashed a Twin City Bowling Association tournament record by crashing a 736 series on the opening weekend of the annual tournament at the LaChapelle Lanes in Peshigo. . . The Marinette pin buster belted single counts of 308, 236 and 292.

Talk about the home floor in basketball. . . The Iron Rangers have never won a game on the Rochester, Minn., rink and kept the tradition alive last weekend by bowing twice, 5-3 and 4-1, in United States Hockey League action.

Little Dave Verlanen, most prolific scorer in Suomi College history, staged another dazzling performance in his latest start, leading the Lions to a 143-109 victory over Taylor County Teachers College. . . The 5 foot 10 inch guard poured in 46 points as Suomi ran its season record to 19-3. . . Jon Cameron, 6 foot 3 inch freshman from Marquette, contributed 29 points. . . ## Redskins Defeat Carney, Reach Century Mark Without Fochesato

HERMANVILLE — Coach Don Hill's Hermansville Redskins, running with their scoring sparkplug fouled up, attained their top speed of the season here last night with a 100-82 Big Seven victory over Carney.

Randy Fochesato, 5 foot 11 inch marksman who had averaged 30 points per game, was sidelined with the flu and did not suit up for the contest. The Redskins made up for the loss of Fochesato with a balanced attack headed by Len Welling who fired in 31 points. Three other Hermansville players hit in high double figures.

Welling, who also turned in a stellar job on the boards, has been hitting at a torrid clip in his last four games in which he has scored 101 points.

Coach Bob Kuntze's Wolves, who handed Hermansville its lone Big Seven setback in a 10-1 record, made another strong run at the Redskins. Down by four points at the end of the first quarter, 18-14, the Wolves matched the Redskins point-for-point in the second frame. The half ended with Hermansville leading by a 42-38 margin. Hermansville took command in the third period, spreading the lead to 70-59, and then tucked it away with a 30 point surge in the fourth frame. As a team, Hermansville connected on 33 of 53 shots from the field and added 26 of 48 from the free throw line. Carney was outscored by two field goals, 33 to 31, and the Wolves tossed in 20 of 31 charity shots.

Tiger Defense Stymies Broncs

POWERS-SPALDING — The Powers-Spalding Tigers turned to defense here Tuesday night and the switch paid off in a 64-42 victory over the Bark River-Harris Broncs of the Central League.

Coach Tom LeQuia's Tigers gained revenge for a nine point setback suffered to the Broncs early in the season.

Holding the Broncs to two free throws in the first period, Powers-Spalding pulled out to an 11-2 lead and was never headed. The Tigers built up a 36-21 cushion in the first three periods and then exploded for 28 points to ice the decision in the fourth quarter.

Scott Riedy, who pumped in 14 points in the final eight minutes, led the Tigers with 20 points.

Bark River-Harris won the jayvee preliminary, 51-50.

Eagles Notch Fourth Win; Nip Crusaders

STEPHENSON — The improving Stephenson Eagles fashioned their third victory in their last four starts here Tuesday night, tripping the Holy Name Crusaders by a margin of 48-36 in Great Northern Conference action.

Coach Guss Lord's Eagles had lost nine of their first 10 starts this season after winning the Great Northern championship last year. They snapped their slump by nipping Marquette and Peshtigo, slipped against Norway, and added Holy Name to their list of victims last night.

It was a night of frustration for Coach John Butrymowicz's

Crusaders who couldn't find the range from the floor. They hit on only 12 of 48 shots for 25 per cent. Their field goal production in the second half was a meager five, two coming in the third quarter and three in the fourth.

The Eagles took fewer shots, playing a deliberate style, but made more of them. Stephenson canned 18 of 45 attempts for 40 per cent.

In spite of their cold spell, the Crusaders took an early lead in the game and then staged a stirring comeback in the closing minutes of action.

After trailing by 11 points, 42-31 the Crusaders rallied to come within four at 42-38, with 1:50 to go. Ken Kline, a 6 foot senior playing his best game of the season for Stephenson, clicked on a pair of free throws with 50 seconds to go and the Eagles hit a field goal at the final buzzer.

Kline came through with three key buckets in the second half and finished with 15 points to lead the Eagles in the scoring department. Bruce Weng added 13 of the winners. Tom Smith again paced the Crusaders on the scoreboard with 18 points and was a major factor as Holy Name gained a 29 to 23 edge in rebounding. Holy Name was tough from the foul line, converting 14 of 18 opportunities, while the Eagles managed only 10 of 20. Stephenson won the jayvee game by one point.

MANISTIQUE Francis Criqui Heads Advisory Group On Game

The citizens advisory committee for Schoolcraft and four other eastern U.P. counties with the Conservation Department held its first meeting Saturday at St. Ignace.

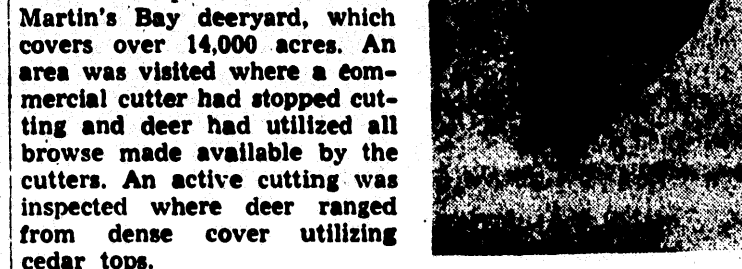

Following review of the 1966 deer hunting season, commercial forest cutting status, deer-range management and general matters, the group visited the U. S. Forest Service office where Dale Staeger explained present cutting plans and a proposed accelerated contract to more nearly utilize annual available timber resources.

A field trip was made to St. Martin's Bay deeryard, which covers over 14,000 acres. An area was visited where a commercial cutter had stopped cutting and deer had utilized all browse made available by the cutters. An active cutting was inspected where deer ranged from dense cover utilizing cedar tops.

An area cut in the past was inspected. Well-beaten deer trails traversed the area, all good deer food was used and unpalatable, non-nourishing species such as balsam and balm - of - Gilead were being browsed. A fenced deer enclosure revealed natural growth of shrubs and trees inside in comparison to the outside, where deer had browsed shrubs and young trees to snow level.

The group elected Francis Criqui of Newberry chairman. Eighteen members were present in the morning session which began at 8 a.m. Luce, Mackinac, Alger and Chippewa counties also are included in the group. The next meeting is March 11 at a location to be determined later.

Department of Conservation personnel assisting in the meeting were L. G. Schenauer, district game biologist, R. G. Strong, R. J. Salo, habitat biologist, J. L. Halbach, district forest supervisor, R. Bolz, area forester and R. Glatus, park manager.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Is your underwear half off, too?"

Prisoners Of War Reminisc

Real Hogan's Heroes At KI

KI. SAWYER AIR FORCE BASE — With the conflict in Vietnam, more often than not, combat crew members ask themselves "What if I was shot down and captured by the enemy?" This question will remain unanswered as far as most of them are concerned, but some will face the cold showers, disease, and the wrath of the enemy.

Three men stationed here have been shot down. Not in the current Vietnam conflict but in World War II. All three were prisoners of the Germans in the same prisoner of war camp. They are now serving together at Sawyer.

Chief Master Sergeant Malcolm K. Breeze, 62nd Fighter Interceptor Squadron; Senior Master Sergeant William I. Bertagnoli, 410th Armament and Electronics Maintenance Squadron and Master Sergeant Wilbur S. Rice Strategic Air Command Management Engineering Team, were three of 43,000 American flyers held prisoner by the Germans at Stalag 7A and later Stalag 17.

Rice First

The first of the three to be shot down and captured by German regulars was Sergeant Rice. Attached to the 336th Bomb Squadron of the 95th Bomb Group stationed at Alconbury, England, he was shot down on May 29, 1943 while on his fifth combat mission.

The target for the B-17 crew on that day were German submarine pens at Lorient, France. A flight engineer/gunner, Sergeant Rice was one of the crew who lived to tell of his war experience. The pilot and copilot were killed as was the waist gunner, who died when his parachute failed to open. Even though Sergeant Rice was captured, the bombardier and squadron commander managed to be picked up by the French underground and escaped from German occupied territory with the underground's help.

Less than two months later, Sergeant Bertagnoli was shot down while on his first combat mission as a B-17 waist gunner. A member of the 326th Bomb Squadron of the 92nd Bomb Group also based at Alconbury he was shot down and captured on Aug. 12, 1943. Unlike Sergeant Rice's crew, his crew did not suffer any casualties.

65 Below Zero

Exactly eight months and one day later on April 13, 1944, the B-17 in which Sergeant Breeze was a member of the 338 Bomb Squadron 96th Bomb Group based at Snettleton Heath, England, was turret gunner/engineer was shot down. The B-17 developed engine trouble and the number three engine would not feather. Consequently, the bomber was forced to fall out of formation and a radio call went out for fighter support. Instead of the friendly P-51s, German AFW 190s dotted the horizon. On his 25th combat mission of the war, Sergeant Breeze was shot down.

Sergeant Breeze said, "Average missions lasted anywhere from 6 1/2 to 8 hours and average temperatures, in the heat-seekers planes sometimes was 65 below zero, but things warmed up in a hurry when the flak started coming in."

Initially, the three airmen were held prisoner in Stalag 7A located north of Munich, Germany. They were later moved to Stalag 17B at Krems, Austria because the Germans felt they were too close to the Swiss border and could easily escape.

Over 4,000 Yanks

Stalag 17B housed over 4,000 Americans plus about 100,000 prisoners of other nationalities. The camp was situated on a hill and on a clear day one could see the city of Vienna, 35 miles away.

Allied bombers flew over the camp enroute to bomb runs in and around Vienna. The camp was utilized as an I.P. (initial point) on bombing runs.

A typical day as a POW began with a roll call at 7 or 8 a.m. which lasted from one to 16 hours depending on how the head count came out.

500 Men To Unit

After roll call, a 25 gallon bucket of hot water was distributed to each barracks. This water was used for shaving, washing and for making coffee. The men were left on their own after roll call. They could visit with the other men or play baseball if weather permitted. Evening roll call began at 4 p.m. with soup and black rye bread served as the evening meal. Lights out was sounded at 9 p.m.

The barracks were 150 feet long with upwards to 500 men to a barracks. The bunks were triple-quadruple. They were three tiers high with four beds side by side. This arrangement was meant to sleep 12 men.

Hot water and fuel for fires were two other comforts absent in the prison. A hot bath was taken about once every three months, because of the shortage of firewood to heat hot water. A cold bath could be taken every day.

The International Red Cross visited the camp quarterly to delouse the men. Delousing was a chemical process by which the clothes of the men were freed of disease laden body parasites. In addition to the delousing, the men had their heads shaven clean every three months to get rid of lice.

Red Cross Aid

Red Cross packages were received periodically. Some of these food parcels, that were meant to last one man about a week, had to be shared by five men. Without exception the German guards would puncture all cans in the parcels with bayonets so they could not be used as escape rations. The prisoners, however, countered them by using the margarine included in the packages to plug the punctures. As the temperature, even in summer rarely rose above 69 degrees the margarine kept the canned food from spoiling.

Mail was received sporadically. Almost without exception, the first six months would be spent without any mail. The Germans allowed each man to send two post cards and one letter per month.

During the first six months, cigarettes and soap were in short supply but this problem was alleviated when prisoners began receiving cigarettes and soap from home.

Candles Of Margarine

As light bulbs were almost non-existent, the prisoners made candles out of margarine included in the Red Cross parcels. A strip of towel was inserted into a can of the margarine and this would serve as a light for approximately a week.

Despite the hardships, morale of the airmen remained high. Sergeant Breeze, attributed this to the fact that, "there was no doubt in any of our minds that there would be American tanks with white stars plastered on them to liberate us. It was just a matter of time."

For recreation, the prisoners put on stage plays and conducted talent shows.

"I remember once" Sergeant Rice reminisced, "the International Red Cross sent in a railroad car containing 40,000 rolls of toilet paper, 4,000 hockey sticks and 1,000 pair of ice skates. The hockey sticks turned out to be the most beneficial

SERGEANT BERTAGNOLI reads a copy of "Kriegs Memories" a book written by one of the prisoners held captive at Stalag 17 during World War II. The author bribed a German guard with cigarettes to smuggle a camera into the camp so that he would have pictures for his book. (USAF Photos)

SERGEANT RICE, left, and Sergeant Breeze compare the dog tag issued to them as a means of identification at the stalag and a dog tag issued to Air Force personnel today.

as firewood to heat water for instant coffee."

Guards Harassed

The harassment of the German guards was another way of passing time for the men. On one occasion, the prisoners lifted the bayonet of one of the guards. When the man reported to be relieved at the end of his guard shift it was discovered that his bayonet was missing. If he didn't find the missing bayonet he would be sent to the Russian front.

The guard went from barracks to barracks, tears in his eyes, searching until the prisoners finally returned the bayonet to him.

Another episode occurred when an army corporal with an American flag tattooed on his left arm was hidden in the lag, to liberate us, but their plan backfired."

Sergeant Breeze, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, enlisted in December, 1940.

Breeze Retires

He retired recently after serving as aircraft maintenance superintendent in the 62nd Fighter Interceptor Squadron. He is married to the former Mildred R. Keith of Anguilla, Miss. They have three children: Frank 17, Alice 13 and William 11.

Born and raised in Hurley, Wis., Sergeant Bertagnoli enlisted in October, 1942. Sergeant Bertagnoli is the fire control branch chief in the armament and electronics maintenance squadron. Married to the former Corinne C. Carlson of Montreal, Wis., they have three children: Linda 19, William 17 and Paul 11.

Sergeant Rice, a native of Bend, Oregon enlisted in February, 1942. He is currently the noncommissioned officer in charge of the Strategic Air Command Management Engineering Team. He is married to the former Betty J. Sturn of
